that we purchased from you four months affect birst "Hammonda."

They have been in containt use since then and have proved their excellence in many ways, so such so that we have recently purchased liftee more and have discarded two other styles which were in use.

My experience has been that the "Hammond" combines in addition to the good qualities of the best machine, other festures which make it, in my opinion, apperfor to any type writing machine in the market.

The alignment is perfect, the print is clear and I think a higher rate of speed can be attained than on any other machine. It have my observations upon the fact that after a four months trial confined exclusively to work performed during office fours, our operators can write as fast as they have ever been able to write on other machines, and I anticipate a still greater grogress to that direction.

We are now using the "Hammond" exclusively.

The other branch offices which have been stabilized for some time, and have been a great convenience and accommodation to the traveling public, are also centrally located on the corner of Sixth and it streets, opposite the B. and P. depot; 2159. Pennsylvania avenue, corner of Twenty second street northwest; 512 Ninth street northwest, and 301 Pennsylvania avenue conflicted. Mr. Hawing employs two athletemen to can't express wagon, one as a driver and the other as a helper, and pays both men good wages, with strict orders to take laggage to any portion of the house without any extra cost, or bring away the luggage also from any portion of the dwelling without any additional charge. All of this accommodation this express company is willing to do cheerfully for the small amount of 30 cents. Some other transfer companies in the city have also two men on their express wagons, but they only pay the driver, and the helper's wages comes from the peckets of their patrons, who are charged so much money, no particular amount—just what they can get—to take the baggage to any portion of the hones or take it away. No one blames the helper for making a living; some one has to pay, and in this case the patrons of the express companies pay instead of the companies themselves. It is different with Lloyd's Twenty-five-Cent Express, for when any of their patrons pay 25 cents for taking away a trunk or bringing it from the depol, or anywhere else, that settles the entire bill. Lloyd's Express is the original one in this city, and has atood the test for many years for reliability and prompiness.

"But---

Do As I Say."

"Don't do as I do." That's the familiar prefix to this proverb, and about everybody follows that part of it, at least; but, somehow, we are reluctant to be very particular about following the advice of others, to say nothing of ignoring the example. That's all right. For some reasons we glory in this trait of human nature. I feverybody followed somebody else we would only have to carry one style in every line of goods. For example, take Parasols. Every lady wants oneneeds one. But is the remark not often made, "that's too common." Now, instead of one style in Parasols we have ONE HUN-DRED DIFFERENT STYLES. You can carry one like your friend's, or you can have something entirely different. It all depends upon how much you want to pay. We might as well try to float the Washington monument in the Potomac River as to try to tell you what a variety our stock of Parasols contains.

We can suit you, though.
